

REFUSE TO ACCEPT HUNGARIAN COMMANDER

AUSTRIANS HAVE DECLINED TO ACCEPT GEN. OTTO VON BELOW AS COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF FORCES ON ITALIAN FRONT.

LULL IN THE FIGHTING

Reports Indicate That Germans Are Making No Extensive Preparations to Attack to Regain Valuable Ground Which Was Lost.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Rome, July 10.—Austria has declined to accept the German General Otto Von Below as commander in chief of the forces on the Italian front, because German divisions with him, according to the newspaper Epoca which bases its statement on advices from a Swiss source.

Austria, it adds, has temporarily given up the idea of revenging herself for her recent defeat by Italy.

Huns Become Active

Considerable activity was developed this morning by German artillery and machine guns in the region east of Alsace, in the vicinity of Villers Bretonneux. The Germans delivered local attacks in the Villers Bretonneux area but these were repulsed.

On the Flanders front, the British carried out an operation in the vicinity of Merris northeast of Nieppe wood by means of which the line was advanced a short distance and prisoners were taken.

Artillery Active

Artillery duels on the front north of Montdidier, and south of the Alsace near Chavigny, continued in the morning. The Germans recently made inroads upon the German line, were announced by the German line, were announced
by the German line, were announced

All Is Quiet

The fronts west of Chateau Thierry, where American troops held positions, have been quiet, but it is believed heavy fighting may come at any moment.

Below Normal

Last night the enemy artillery fire was far below normal. The American gunners maintained an effective bombardment of the enemy line, especially in the region of Hill 204, west of Chateau Thierry.

Albanian Offensive

Rome, July 10.—Italian troops on the offensive in Albania are continuing their advance, the war office announced today. The enemy in yesterday's fighting was driven back on both sides of the Osun river.

ON WEST LINE.—Fighting activity on Western and Italian fronts has been continued in the morning. The tension both fronts, however, will not be prolonged as there are many signs that the great combat which marked the German offensive in the west and which has been revived, will shortly be revived. Satisfactory as have been the nibbling tactics of the allied command, apparently they have not yet touched the enemy's action.

FRANKO-AMERICAN TROOPS from French front have taken 5400 prisoners since June 15. The German hesitation in resuming an offensive against the allies, although prepared to meet it, little concern as day by day they improve their positions by local operations, which a year or so ago would have been looked upon as sizable military action.

ATTACK ON FRENCH.—In an attack against the new French positions in the Longpont region, west of Alsace, the Germans have failed to advance.

The enemy has made no attempt to recoup the losses sustained in the forward movement south of Noyon, in which the Germans lost 300 prisoners and 40 machine guns.

The weather on the British front has been rainy and unfavorable.

Berlin continues to be being repulsed.
All allied patrol actions are made to appear as attacks and allied attacks as small raids. Claims are made by the German command that a "successful" German offensive has been fought west of Chateau Thierry, where the Americans and French hold the line.

IN ALBANIA.—Franko-Italian successes in Albania apparently threaten the Austro-Hungarian situation in Central Albania. The French are making good gains in eastern Albania, west of Lake Scutari, while the Italians are advancing steadily in the west. The Austrian line appears to be V-shaped with the allies pressing hard on both flanks and the point of the salient near Sperr. An Austrian retreat at any moment would probably compel the Bulgarians to re-arrange their lines. In Macedonia east of Lake Ochrida, a Greek divisional government has been set up in Vlodivostok now in control of Czech Slavonic forces. It will oppose the central power. The new government is reported to have the support of the Allies.

NEW MINISTER.—Admiral von

Hintze, the German minister at Christiana, it is reported will succeed Dr.
Richard von Kuehlmann as German foreign secretary. An Austrian minister at Vlodivostok, who was brought forth by remarks made by the Reichstag as to the probability of ending the war by force of arms. Admiral von Hintze was former foreign minister to China and Mexico.

ARE PREPARING.—There are indications that the Germans are preparing an effort of some magnitude to recapture the valuable high ground won by the Australians and Americans within the past few days on the German front east of Amiens north of Villers Bretonneux. Local attacks occurred in the southern part of this region last night but the British had little trouble in dealing with them. This morning, however, the enemy artillery opened

Reports Claim That Aviator Has Escaped From German Prison

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, July 10.—Corporal Everett Buckley, of Kilmour, Ill., an aviator in the French service who was captured by the Germans at Verdun, has escaped from Germany, according to a dispatch from Zurich, to the Le-Journal has reached Switzerland. These day morning.

When Corporal Buckley first disappeared last September, it was reported that he had been killed. Paris Americanized this and in November it was ascertained that Buckley was a prisoner in Germany, after having been wounded.

a bombardment of considerable intensity in this sector over a front of approximately eight miles from Villers Bretonneux north to the Somme.
ANOTHER QUER.—The only infantry operation within the past twenty-four hours in which ground was gained is reported by Field Marshal Folig, it occurred on the Flanders front, where the British advanced their line slightly near Merris. This includes the position which protects Nieppe wood and the other approaches to the railroad junction back of the wood, continued possession of which is vital to the maintenance of the British line on the Ypres front.

WEST FRONT QUIET.—Comparative quiet prevails on the West front.
The only activity of note is the artillery duels north of Montdidier, and the French recently made extensive local gains of ground.

RECENTLY ACTIVE.—The region of Montdidier, from whence a considerable volume of shelling is reported, includes the Compiegne sector by the American troops. The sector of the Marne salient held by the Americans, was unusually quiet today and last night, the artillery fire being far below normal. Such quietness was mainly directed against the Germans in the neighborhood of Hill 204, west of Chateau Thierry.

Senate Committee in Report Favors Taking Over Wire Services

Washington, July 10.—The house resolution authorizing the President to take over telegraph, telephone and cable, and radio services, during the war, was favorably reported to the Senate today by Chairman Smith, of the commerce committee.

Senator Reed of Missouri read telegrams from several hundred American Union men in Germany, who state opposition to the strike or government operation.

Senator Kellogg of Minnesota said not one Western Union employee was lost when the union and Senator Gore of Oklahoma added that the union membership was confined to the board of trade and private wire operators in the United States and Canada.

PAN-GERMANS WIN IN APPOINTMENT OF VON HINTZE AS MINISTER

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, July 10.—According to an official dispatch from Switzerland today the retirement of Von Kuehlmann as German foreign minister and appointment of Von Hintze as minister of foreign affairs, is looked upon as a victory for the pan-Germans.
It is also recalled that the social democrats have been making efforts to secure the appointment of Hertling as foreign minister. The situation has been altered in any way for the military party is in reality governing.

CATCH 'EM ALIVE IS NEW VASSAR SLOGAN

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 10.—Vassar farmhands have received their latest instructions. After arising at 4 o'clock in the morning and hoisting for eight hours or so with the necessary excuses for meals, the workers are to go to the college lake to catch frogs for the laboratory use of the nurses in training camp.

The new bill of recreation is not compulsory, but it is merely one more evidence of the spirit of friendliness existing between the training camp and the farmhands. The bill is highly entertaining, with enough chance to make it interesting.

The only materials needed are an old butterfly net and a live bottle.
The catchers are to be along the edge of the lake until there is a splash. Out flies the net, and a large frog is trying to climb up six or eight feet to escape. The transfer to the bottle is always exciting, especially when there are several live ones already there.

The bill also has been asked to save all the mice they catch for the biological use of the nurses.
Now the "catch 'em alive" trap is more popular than those that snap to kill.

papers is the constant appeal from the

OFFICERS' SOCIETY MAY BE ORGANIZED

Described Plan By Fort Sheridan Officer At Banquet Given by Hon.
J. M. Whitehead at Y. M. C.
A Last Evening.

A Rock County chapter of a national organization which would be of mutual help to army officers and their families will shortly be organized.
Plans advanced at a meeting of officers' relatives at the Y. M. C. A. last night materialized. Over fifty people were in attendance last evening and enjoyed a supper as the guests of Hon. J. M. Whitehead, who invited them for the purpose of hearing a discussion of the proposed organization.
Capt. Adams of Fort Sheridan was the speaker of the occasion and told in an interesting way of the good work which is being done by the Fort Sheridan officers' organization, and urged local people to unite in forming a similar society not only for Fort Sheridan officers, but for graduate officers of other training camps.
Capt. Adams is in Milwaukee today for the purpose of forming a state organization. As he clearly brought out the need for such a society, the society of officers and to provide recreation for the officers themselves, thereby keeping high the morale of the army leaders.

The plan is a most worthy one and should be carried out locally if it is not possible to make it national. A committee in investigation of the organization of a Rock County division was informally elected. Mr.
Adams is chairman and the local committee members are Mrs. N. L. Carle, Mrs. H. B. Fletcher, M. P. Richardson and William McIntosh of Edegar.

BEEF MAY NOW BE SERVED EVENINGS UNTIL MIDNIGHT

Obedience to Recent Order Cutting Use of Beef Results in Pleading Modification.

Because of the way in which the recent order restricting the use of beef has been obeyed, the shortage is somewhat relieved and restaurant and hotel managers are now able to serve beef at dinner, from 5 o'clock in the afternoon until midnight. Its further use will not be permitted.

This order, which is pleasing to the house proprietors, was received from the state food adminis-| trator last evening by County Food Administrator F. L. Clemons. | lier, but has not circulated his name.

FIFTH VICTORY WON BY AMERICAN FLYER

ner, of Brooklyn won his fifth aerial victory here by becoming an ace. By the capture of the enemy plane, he teau Thierry. The German machine that the new Sultan of Turkey, Meh-med VI, is pro-ally in sympathy, and disposed to an understanding with representatives of the allies, was expressed today by Sir Eyre

Washington, July 10.—Preparation for framing the new war revenue bill went forward in the house ways and means committee today with attention centering upon the list of suggestions for new or higher taxes on luxuries and necessities submitted yesterday by the treasury department.

Members of the committee indicated the list would form the basis for consumption tax in their draft of the bill. Some of the proposals would be changed and others disregarded.

Would Double Taxes.

Besides doubling present taxes on liquors and tobacco and quadrupling soft drink levies and making general increases in the existing rates, the treasury suggestion includes taxes of 50% on retail price of jewelry, mobiles, bicycles, musical instruments, etc.; 10c a gallon on gasoline to be paid to the wholesaler.

picture rental of the present films.

Signed Bill.
President Wilson today signed the twelve billion army appropriation bill to meet expenses of the army program for the next fiscal year.

Replying to a Senate resolution Secretary Baker today said the senate today every effort is being made to give better mail service between this country and American troops in France.
And a steady improvement has been shown.

The fight began on the senate to bring the amendment to the eleven million dollar military draft board provision proposing national prohibition during the war after December 31st. Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania pressed his point that it is generally possible to secure a national prohibition bill and subject, under the rules, to elimination from the bill.

Prohibition advocates vigorously contested that principle. Senator Senator Jones of Washington declared the bill of temporary measure stimulates food production during the war. Senator Penrose and Phil insisted virtually that the bill be taken out of appropriation and as a rule, barring general legislation was applicable.

A 10 per cent tax on wire leases intended to apply to telegraph, telephone and other wires which are leased is another of the treasury proposals.

QUESTIONNAIRE RETURNS AFTER LONG TRAVELS

A torn and battered questionnaire, in a state of almost total collapse from its long travels, was returned today to the local draft board's office today, after having failed, during two weeks of wandering from city to city, to find the registrant to whom it was addressed. The questionnaire was sent to Ed Williams, who was one of the registrants here on June 5 last, and is the first of the 300 sent by the local board to registrants without success.

Few documents have covered so much ground in such a short space of time as this particular questionnaire. It has been to New York, Ill., it was moved on from there and made wide circuit of the state of Illinois. Cities visited by the illustrious document included Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis and North Chicago. On its last lap back to this city it stopped for a short stay at Beloite. Local board officials were of the opinion that the questionnaire was much knocked about questionnaire deserved a long rest after its strenuous and unsuccessful search.

The questionnaire, now on its last journey, this time to reach the person for whom it was destined. The registrant to whom it was addressed, Ed Williams, has been located in New York, Mich., where he has been working for some time past. A letter received by the local board today from Mr. Williams brought the information that he had tried to enlist in the navy but had been rejected.
The long-suffering questionnaire was then clothed in a new envelope and was then started on its last trip to Iron Mountain. Hopes are held out that it will recover sufficiently in a short time so that it may be able to endure the return trip when properly mated out.

State Convention of Democrats Held in Milwaukee Today

Milwaukee, July 10.—"The question in this war is variously stated. Its real purpose was never better stated and never will be more clearly defined than it was by the greatest living statesman when he said that we were entering the struggle in order that the world might be made safe for democracy," said Thomas M. Kearney of Racine during the course of his address at the annual convention of the Democratic state conference called for the purpose of recommending a state ticket to go before the primary elections. Several hundred delegates representing all parts of the state were present.

Mr. Kearney reviewed various phases of the war and referred to the "American ideal" as "our form of government, of the liberties it recognizes, of the freedom it guarantees, of the opportunities it affords, of the blessings it aids the God of all in dispensing to His children."

"Let it be settled now for all time to come," he continued,
"that this problem in its completeness and with confidence and trust in the right and in the God of right; let us do that which we can do to support our country and its cause, and let us do it as Democrats we are particularly interested in the outcome of this war.
The ideals we are striving to protect are those which our party has been fighting for since the beginning of history."

The war profiteer, he said, belonged in the class with the burglar and the robber, with the thief and the gambler and the yegg man, "all with due approach to these lesser criminals."

He criticized Wisconsin's harassment of President Wilson in his war course. "They do not intend, and I do not think they ever did intend, to give our enemies aid and comfort, they are relatively disloyal," he declared, and pointed in marked contrast to what he spoke of as acts of loyalty of the late Senator Paul O.
Husted.

Mr. Kearney urged the nomination and election of Democrats for every Wisconsin district.

In concluding "that Democrats organize in every voting precinct in the state; that nominations be made for all offices; that every man, woman and child be engaged in with vigor; that the whole activity be built on the need that our president may have the support he deserves and the power to perform his duty."

Before nominations were reached, the names of H. A. Mohlenpauer, resident of Racine, and Mark of Green Bay were mentioned as gubernatorial timber. John Hogan of Cumberland was suggested as lieutenant governor; O. F. Roessner of Jackson for state treasurer and R. J. Egger of Chillwaukee and William Ryan of La Crosse for attorney general.

ENGLISH AND IRISH GIRLS LIKE ENLISTED MEN

New York, July 10.—American girls, you who have said good-bye to Jim with great big tears rolling down your cheeks, and who are now saying "I only knew it, pretty Irish-girls" and English girls are meeting him when he lands on their shores and being just as kind to him as he can be. Of course they're doing it in a perfectly proper and common sense sort of way. That ought to help.

Mrs. James Scribner of London, while visiting here recently, told how the girls in England and Ireland much preferred the American enlisted men to the British soldiers. They told stories about their daring and bravery.

"These girls have come to believe that the American enlisted men are the best of the lot, doing the fighting," she said, "and they will have very little to do with your officers any more." Whenever there is a parade of the American soldiers and the building windows and toss down flowers over the heads of the young men in khaki and notes with their names written on them, the little British girl when

Wisconsin State Bankers in Annual Session at Milwaukee

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Milwaukee, July 10.—Trade in non-essentials must be greatly curtailed and loans for non-essentials must be practically eliminated or the public will not be able to invest in government bonds. W. W. Goebel, president of the Commercial National bank of Kansas City, Kan., declared in an address today before the Wisconsin Bankers' association.

Mr. Goebel told of the part taken by the national banks in aiding Liberty loan work, urged all bankers to advocate conservation among their clients, denounced pro-Germans, pleaded against any peace "dictated by the Hohenzollern dynasty," and urged the work of the railroad administration, adding, however:
"Let us hope and trust that after the war the railroad property will revert to the former owners and be operated by them under enlightened governmental supervision that will make the security of these great common carriers a safe investment for the people."

PUPILS SHOULD BE TAUGHT WAR WORK

STATE INSPECTOR OF SCHOOLS WOULD HAVE CHILDREN DEVOTE FORTY MINUTES DAILY TO OTHER VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS.

PROFITABLE MEETING.

All Day Session of Rock County School Board Yesterday a Success. Rousing Patriotic Talk By O. E. Oestreich.

"An all day session, planned with reference to the needs of rural schools, was held yesterday at the Janesville high school. Members of school boards, parents of children attending rural schools, and teachers were in attendance. The morning program was mostly taken up by educational and various announcements by Superintendent Andsdel, who presided at the meeting. The main address was by State Superintendent C. C. Carey, who had for his topic "Wisconsin Education Affairs." Miss Florence Milbrandt also gave a talk on "Supplementary Reading," and Miss Florence Nelson one on "Playground Apparatus."

A large gathering of representative farmers was in attendance at the afternoon session, between 4 and 5 p. m. The opening topic was "War Work for Pupils," discussed by Miss Ella Jacobson. She emphasized the importance of copying the pupils supplied with carefully planned work, correlated with their studies. She mentioned some of the things needed, as a printing outfit, a typewriter, a good dictionary, a good paper, both manila and colored; colored splints, blocks, rulers, pencils and compasses.

A practical and common sense talk along the "New Movement in Education" was given by A. A. Thompson, state inspector of schools. Some of these new movements which he mentioned, were: (1) The children should be examined to determine their degrees of mentality. An expert is in attendance at the office of the state superintendent who has the children tested. (2) Tests should be made of scholarship of pupils, to determine if they are worthy of being in the school. (3) There should be socialized recitations. These are described as being a discussion by pupils of the topic of the lesson, instead of the usual things by rote. (4) In the manual training department and in the domestic science the articles made were of some real value; something which could be used or utilized in the home.

Encouraging pupils to overcome their timidity and talk in public, and also for the taking care of various drives, coming up from time to time. The suggestion was made by Mr. Thompson that one period a day be planned for war work, and the course be laid out with that end in view. He also asked co-operation from the members of the school board in making their buildings sanitary and comfortable.

He mentioned the fact that the state offers $50 for school buildings conforming to the rules of sanitation. A forceful talk along the ideas of American patriotism and citizenship was given as a closing part of the program by O. E. Oestreich. He dwelt on the fact that the children of the nation had not as yet been taught the high ideals for which this country stands, and that it was the duty of school teachers to inform them in this matter. He said that it was necessary to teach the love of country and not that of policy. He gave vivid illustrations of the duties of a citizen of this country, and emphasized their duties toward the land of their adoption. He discussed the duties of the citizen in the home, in the school, in the community, and in the nation. He suggested ways of returning the arguments presented, and closed with a plea for war savings bonds, but resources of money, material, labor, and even stores of cheerfulness and optimism, were mentioned by him as necessary to the winning of the war. A plea for everyone doing not only "our share," but more than our share, closed his vigorous address.

K. Oestreich led the singing of patriotic songs at both sessions. He also sang a solo in the afternoon, "The Road to Home, Sweet Home." He was cheered to respond and sang "Keep the Home Fires Burning," the large audience joining in the chorus.

The Little Mother of Shock 3

BY BOZ BECKLEY

"My Queenom Come!"

"Shack 3," Field Hospital 111—A. Somewhere in France, Aug. 17, 17. Daring Home Folks:

I need a whole new language to write in! Into the common phrases of everyday life I cannot crowd the subtlety of what surrounds me now, my dears. It is a dream world, and I walk about in it as one who treads upon holy ground. And yet how splendidly human it all is.

Picture your Sally with twenty-one other blue-clad nurses on a trench railway train, passing through the sweet green valley of the Marne, stopping finally at a little gray town not many miles behind that vague and dreadful region called the front.

We tumbled out with our luggage, buckets and cups were over our heads for it was sweltering hot. The station was jammed with soldiers, nurses, doctors, nuns, and boxes of hospital supplies. A few old women and some babies were there to meet us—mostly the folks at whose houses we are to be lodged.

What I cannot describe to you, though, is the sound of the guns. It is a vast and terrible booming, which fills you, when heard for the first time, with unfathomable emotions. It is a sound that cowers—then springs alive and alert!

The village is quaint, with ancient peak-roofed stone houses surrounded by tiny farms. No men are about except old men, and there are no children. It is an old, old grandfather and grandmother, their daughter, granddaughters, daughters-in-law and her two babies—adorable little things who by some miracle of maternal self-denial are kept happy, rosy and fat.

I have a little room at the top of the house with a deep window looking into some poplar trees. Everything is clean and comfy. I breakfast with my family, whose name is Breunhardt. Mid-day meal and supper are at the barracks. Eaten from tin plates and cups—and how delicious it tastes.

The walk from my billet to the hospital is about a quarter mile, along a shady road where little children pop out to make me presents—some flowers, a cup of milk for myself or perhaps a dish of conserve "pour les blessés."

"Ah—these 'blessés' lying in that doleful row along the walls of 'Shack 3.' I know now the feelings of every mother in the world! If I have no real children of my own flesh and bone, mine—and nothing can take them from me because if some are taken from me, there are always others and still others to love, needing my love, so touchingly grateful under my ministering hand! This is my place—my 'queenom come.'"

But I must not sleep, for two nights out of sheer happiness, I think. Sometimes the sound of gunfire goes on all through the night. But that didn't keep me awake for you get used to it quickly. It was this new miraculous motherhood of mine! I feel like taking the whole hospital up in my arms and holding it to my breast.

But I reserve these wild thoughts for when I'm off duty. There is not a minute between 8 in the morning and 8 at night that I am not too busy to think of anything but the work in hand. It is after I have made my poor lads as comfortable as possible, straightened the ward, tidied my dress closet (each of us has certain "housework" duties to perform), told the night nurse about my special children who are to be looked after, and then, on my way "home," that thoughts of my other world creep in.

Then I am with you, dear ones, in spirit. You precious faces come before me as I trudge that quaint French road. Visions come of the blessed home, the garden the street have Mrs. "hall's" pangs done well this year. "The Torrances' house! You see I am quite able to write down the name. Yes, I can even think of Stephen without languor, almost without pain.

How I wish every girl who has had to turn from the tomb of her dead love could find refuge in such life-renewing work as mine! Was there ever a time when the suffering world held such solace for the lonely woman? With my heart's love.

Industrial Hygiene

Skin Troubles of Meat Handlers. Impetigo contagiosa, or a crop of small contagious boils, as well as very frequent among butchers, packers, those who handle carcasses in any manner. A form of ringworm (trichophytia) has often occurred in epidemic form among the handlers of cattle and among the cattle too. This is caused by a parasite of vegetable species.

Poot and mouth disease occurs among cattle and men, is characterized by fever, constitutional symptoms, and a general eruption of little pimples or pustules especially on the fingers and feet, with soreness of the lips, lining of cheeks and the tongue. The infection may take place through a scratch of the skin of a milkmaid's hand.

Anthrax (wool and hide handlers' pustule) begins as a pimple or festering pustule on the hand or any part of the skin, which rapidly swells and changes into a central gangrenous area surrounded by brawny swelling and crops of smaller pustules or pimples, with severe constitutional symptoms (fever, chills, prostration). Unless radically attacked by the surgeon at the very outset the disease is very likely to bring swift death.

Local anesthetic, incise skin, and remove the ganglion. A certain number of ganglions will fit small spontaneous business after a year or more. A third method of treatment which proves satisfactory, though not so quick as surgery, is injection of the sac with an irritant, after withdrawal of the greater part of its contents. The result is not always permanent, however.

students in the dissecting room. It occasionally occurs on the hands of those attending tuberculous patients, when the rules of sanitation or rigid cleanliness are not adhered to.

Handlers of fish are subject to an erythema of the fingers resembling a mild erysipelas, probably caused by a specific infection, which has been transferred by inoculation.

Running water, soap and clean towels should be a much in evidence in a meat market as sausage or white aprons.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Ganglion, or Weeping Snee. Will you please tell me what causes the growth of ganglion on one's wrist and whether there is any cure for it besides an operation? (Miss E. E. O.)

Have consulted five (5) doctors and surgeons about a growth on the back of my hand near wrist. Two pronounced it ganglion but differed as to the method of treatment. What is considered the best treatment? (L. E. S.)

Answer—Ganglion is a cystic swelling (cystic means sac or bladder-like, with fluid contents), usually about the wrist, connected with the capsule of the joint or with the sheath of a tendon, brought on, usually, by strain or overuse of the wrist or by some injury months before the swelling amounts to anything. Usually little pain or soreness. Have the doctor incise a bit, move the ganglion. A certain number of ganglions will fit small spontaneous business after a year or more. A third method of treatment which proves satisfactory, though not so quick as surgery, is injection of the sac with an irritant, after withdrawal of the greater part of its contents. The result is not always permanent, however.

Chronic Appendicitis. Is there such a disease as chronic appendicitis? (Mrs. J. A. H.)

Answer—The best of my knowledge and judgment there is such a disease. Digestive disturbance, and abdominal symptoms of all sorts; if

Put in a soaked yeast cake, set away to rise until light. Add salt and a little sugar. Bake until done in a slow oven. When cold slice and fry brown.

LUNCHEON DAINTIES. Conservation Cookies.—One egg, one-half cup sugar, two-thirds tablespoon melted butter, one cup rolled oats, one-third teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg until light, add gradually sugar, then stir in remaining ingredients. Drop mixture by teaspoonful on baking pan. Bake in moderate oven until delicately browned.

Strawberry Croquettes.—One pint hot cooked rice, yolks of two eggs, two teaspoons sugar, one-half teaspoon butter, salt and little vanilla.

When cool shape into balls with a berry in center. Roll in egg and bread crumbs, fry in hot fat. Serve with hot crushed berries. (Croquettes should be small).

Strawberry Shortcake.—Two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, four tablespoons sugar, two-thirds cup milk, one egg, one-third cup shortening. Sift together flour, salt, baking powder and sugar; add shortening. Beat the egg with two-thirds cup milk and add.

Makes a square cake which can be baked in a seven-inch tin. Cut in two parts and butter. Put berries on top and between. Serve with milk or cream. All measures level.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman thirty-eight years old and I am married to a man five years younger than myself. I used to be very beautiful and was considered the prettiest blond in town, but now I am wrinkled and old looking. My husband is very good to me, but I know he does not love me any longer and is only making the best of his life with me. This makes me very crazy at times. We have two children, a boy and a girl, and I love them so much that I could not get away and leave them. I love them so much that I would not think of leaving them. What would you do if you were in my place?

I want to add that girls should think twice before they marry. It is not pleasant for a wife to be looked at as a curiosity by her husband's friends.

THIRTY-EIGHT. You must stop feeling old. A woman of thirty-eight is still young if she only realizes it. Take particular pains in your dress. Study the clothes that well-dressed women of your age are wearing, and try to reproduce the effects in your own clothing. A skirt two or three inches too long will add at least five years to a woman's appearance. You should always comb your hair so that it looks soft and fluffy. Hair combed straight back or tightly is not youthful except on very young girls.

Pretend to enjoy what your husband likes to do. If you do not you will probably find that you are rejuvenated and that you are having just as good a time as he is. Of course, the most important thing is to change your state of mind because so much depends upon your attitude toward yourself.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years of age and have just finished my freshman year in high school. I have a question that has bothered me for some time. There is a boy half a year behind me in school. I love him more than any other boy. He is what I call a decent and respectable boy. There is going to be a play that he is in and I am also. It will not let out until late, and so would it be proper for me to ask him to walk home with me, or would it show ignorance. This is the first boy I have really loved and I do certainly love him. How can I find out whether he loves me? CONSTANT READER.

You should not ask him to walk home with you. If he wanted to he would without your asking, and surely you would not want to put him in a position where he would have to do it or be rude. Have some member of your family call for you unless he asks permission before the play to take you home.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am past thirty years of age but have no lady friends and I get very lonely at times. As I expect to be called for like to have a young lady to correspond with.

Please advise me how to go ahead properly. THANK YOU.

Give your name to the Young Men's Christian Association and they will find some one who will be glad to correspond with you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl almost fifteen years old. I am too young to go to night parties with my brother?

(2) I live in the country. How can I make some pin money? BOBBY.

(1) You are too young to go to evening parties even with your brother.

(2) You might have a war garden and sell the vegetables you grow to automobilists who pass your house. A great deal of money could be made in this way.

HOSTESS HOUSES.

In the immediate vicinity of all of the national army cantonments, training camps, schools of instruction, or military stations, where the soldiers or sailors of Uncle Sam visit in their leisure hours, are Hostess Houses.
They are a new institution and one created by the war. They are most essential to the welfare and comfort of these fighting soldiers and should be a part of every community.
Steps have been taken to establish such an institution in Janesville, which is the terminal of the interurban system from the Rockford countymment, the starting place for all draft contingents from the northern half of the country, a stopping off place for troops passing through.

That the Rockford cantonment will be in existence for many years to come and that Rock county boys will be quartered there for their preliminary training is most certain. The persons who expect the war to end in a few months will look upon their predictions in two or three years and wonder who they uttered them. Each week-end sees more soldier visitors to Janesville. Clean-cut young men who can not get to their homes in the hours of liberty given them. Boys who take a pleasure in getting away for a day from the routine of camp life, on pass and wish to avoid Rockford, already congested, for some other locality.

These young men come to Janesville, some to pass through to adjacent points, others to remain here a few hours. They visit amusement houses, they enjoy a soda, sit in the park or stand on the corners and then return to camp. No one to say, "Where are you from, and how is everything?" No one to say, "Come in and sit down." "Take dinner with us at home today," or "Would you like to go for an auto ride?" Janesville has not become congested in this stage yet, and we need these Hostess Houses and we need them badly.

Perhaps your boy is down at some other training camp and he writes home of his Sunday in town and taking dinner with this or that person, and the pleasure it gave him? Perhaps he is in France and writes of how cheerful and friendly the French are? The Janesville boys in the service have a place to go when they return for a Sunday leave; it is the other boys who live in northern Michigan, in Minnesota, in the northern end of our own state and down in Illinois, who need the greeting. The plan has been chosen thoughtfully. The plan has been chosen quickly and more than ever we will be doing our share.

NEUTRAL COUNTRIES.

All the time the fighting is going there needs to be exceedingly much propaganda. The allies were not fooled once when Bulgaria saw the "central powers. All at once they threw off the mask and joined up with the Kaiser. We need to watch out very sharply that some of the present neutrals do not do the same.

The world is covered with a network of German spies. In Sweden for instance the Germans control important publications that put the German side constantly before the people.
The German victories and rulers are glorified at the movie shows.

As the Swedish court has always favored Germany, this is a perilous influence. Unfortunately for Germany who have over-reached herself in her desire to grab territory in Finland and compel them to declare war.
That must make the Swedes cautious about their treacherous Teutonic friends.

Our government should have its propaganda work organized in all neutral countries. We should have our press agents to tell the people of those countries the truth, and to nail the lies the German spies are putting over. We should have our picture films exposing the falsity of Germany's claims, making clear her base treachery, and showing how she menaces the whole world.

There is a big job here for some one doing. Reports from the neutral countries are that we are leaving this thing too much to take care of itself. It is not safe. Congress should appropriate a sum of money for publicity work in neutral countries. Competent men familiar with the situation in each of these countries should be placed on the ground and told to get our case before these people. It may save us some very disagreeable surprises.

If the college girls recently graduated desire to get married, they must conceal the fact that they have opinions on poetry, and acquire an intelligent opinion as to which team is going to win the major league championships.

If the Sunday school teachers will prepare elaborate refreshments, offer handicraft prizes for sports, organize all the amusements, and provide transportation, the pupils will kindly consent to attend the annual picnic.

However, some idle teachers have gone into the country taking light reading in the form of a small library of psychology and upercapitation.

The school teachers whom we all envy for their long and restful vacation, are now largely doing housework in their mothers' kitchens for ten hours a day.

Uncle Houben sliding around the country in his comfortable automobile, has forgotten to care if the $12-ten dollar a week cartoonist does caricature his abundant whiskers.

There are people who will pay $30 a week hotel board to live in a summer resort where the principal excitement is going to the postoffice to get the letters from home.

Many baseball pitchers would do better if they didn't try to get twenty-seven put-outs for their own glory.
Allow the holders to smack a ball once in a while.

The people who find it too hot to attend church through the summer, are often the same ones who kick because the church is a failure.

Germany wants to make peace so badly that she will solemnly agree to respect the rights of all powers having a strong military force.

The kids have now reached the most strenuous time of the year, when they must work hard for two months having a good time.

A treaty with Germany about now would be about as valuable as an outlawed lottery ticket.

ROY K. MOULTON

Our contest to select the most fitting war slogan has closed and the prize, a pair of red suspenders, goes to Rev. A. J. Hawks of Pine Knot, Ark., who sent in the following:
"To Hell with the Kaiser."

Some Rev. Some slogan.

Now that the matter of erecting a statue in honor of Uncle Jim Buchanan has been decided in the affirmative, on with the war, let joy be unfettered.

Irv Cobb got back from Europe the other day
And informed a lot of us guys, officially.
That everything is all right with us;
That we are going to land the knockout punch;
That the Kaiser is a nut and the crown prince is a den-
That our boys over there are happy;
That the food is great and the weather fine.
And that the open season for boches will never close.

Until the Berliners hear "Yankee Doodle".

In front of the Imperial palace.
Welcome home, Irv. You little old forty good joy and contentment.

Since princes have joined the aristocracy everybody wants to act like them and just the way of the American people?

If the battle of Waterloo were to occur today it would be described as an unimportant foray on the western front resulting in a clash by small bodies of troops. The world do move.

Why not remove the feathers from the dove of peace and use them with a coat of tar on some of our well-known alien enemies? Just an idea, that's all.

If the flyover drivers in Michigan vote for Uncle Henry for senator he will be elected, but will they?

Who is going to build that tunnel from England to France? Mr. Mc-Adoo, the tunnel expert, hasn't much to do now. Maybe he can find time.

Reading of the eliminations and restrictions devised by the war powers board regarding men's clothing, we can almost see the necessity of wearing Mother Hubbards, old raincoats and bathrobes on the street.
We cannot all be physically perfect like Senator J. H. Han Lewis and the war industries board.

Up to the present moment the crown prince has not been arrested for impersonating an officer.

Note a war receipt for a "delicious summer drink" which says: Take the juice of pineapple, sweetened with cracked ice.
Don't know as we would care for anything sweetened with cracked ice, but the sugar famine is liable to lead to anything.

Kaiser Wilhelm the Last is about to place four new kings on thrones, but the allies are on hand with plenty of axes.

THE SONG OF THE YANK.

Sixty pounds upon my back, Heavy the good lord know, Yet Belgium carries a greater pack And France has a million woes.
So I tighten the straps and I hike along
And I pray to God that I'll finish strong.

Twenty miles through the mud and slime,
Lord, but the ways seem far!
Yet refugees from the Prussian crime Have never a jaunting car.
So I march by them to the day's attack,
And say: Old mother, we'll ride you back.

Sixteen hours at a listening post, Lord, but the minutes drag!
Yet British sticks where she's needed most
And hasn't yet dropped her flag!
So I say, "We'll show 'em before we're through
That the Yanks are the little stickers, too."

TELLS OF LIFE AT CAMP MILLS

Private Howard Hayden Writes Letter From Long Island Military Camp.

Military activity at Camp Mills, Long Island, is described by Private Howard Hayden, in a letter received here recently. More than forty thousand men are gathered at this camp. Private Hayden's letter follows:

Camp Mills, Long Island, June 24, 1918.

Dear Aunt: I received your letter the other day, but just found time to answer it. I am well and getting along fine. I do not know how long we will stay in New York, but hope to. I have not been up to the city yet. We came to this camp from Curtis Bay, Maryland, on a ship, so we could not take much baggage. There are not so much drilling these days, but there are some drafted men who have to drill eight hours every day, and I have to get it.

I have been on guard. I do not like that so very well. It is lonesome at night when you hear the oars, whistles, and bugles. There are eight fellows in my tent. We play cards and tell stories until it is time to go to bed. There are plenty of clothes. We have three pairs of shoes, two suits of woolen O. D., two suits of cotton O. D., four suits of underwear, two hats, a rain coat, towels, etc. I have a washing to do tonight.

Well, it is time for retreat, so I must close. Write soon.

HOWARD.

The Daily Novelette

THE BUTTERNOOTS CHICKEN. Theophilus, said Sybilla, Buttersnoot, "my cousin Euphemia has sent me a real, live chicken from the old farm. Aren't you pleased?"

"Sybilla," said Theophilus, with dignity, "I am willing to humor you in most things, but in this I shall not allow."

"O Theophilus," sobbed his wife, "I heard you tell Wisk, my friend of yours, that you knew all about chickens. You said that was what you were studying last week when you spent those evenings down town. Won't you let me keep this lovely chicken?"

"Yes, yes, my dear," said her husband hastily. "But please do not mention my studies. They are nothing to talk about."

Laughing delightedly, Sybilla Buttersnoot led her husband to the chicken house which she had erected for the new hen.

"Tell me," she begged, "what shall I feed this hen to make it lay many eggs?"

Theophilus looked wisely at the chicken.

"I am afraid, Sybilla," he said, "that your cousin has not been altogether generous. This chicken is suffering from an aggravated attack of double syphilis and hookworm. If you will persist in allowing her to linger in her misery you had better feed her a little bran mash with a dash of quinine. I should advise, however, that you have her shot."

"No, no," cried Sybilla, "I will keep her a few days longer."

Three days later Theophilus Buttersnoot was wailed by his wife, who looked worried.

"Theo," she said, "that hen won't eat the bran mash with quinine, and I want you to prescribe something else, for she hasn't laid a single egg."

Theophilus looked the hen over carefully.

"I am sorry to tell you, Sybilla," he said, "that your hen has a serious case of glanders and that it would be unsafe to eat any eggs she might lay. I am sure you had better have her shot."

Just at that moment the chicken flew lightly to the roof of its coop, threw back its head and crowed loudly.

"Theophilus," said Sybilla Buttersnoot severely, "just what did you mean when you told Wisk to Shink that you knew all about chickens?"

But Theophilus had disappeared.

News Notes from Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN—

Peggy Hyland is one member of the Fox company who is mighty interested in the war and especially the recent U-boat operation on our coast.

No, it is not her husband (she hasn't one of those yet) and it is not a fiance that Miss Peggy is worrying about. It is Dr. Cyril Hutchinson, her father. Dr. Hutchinson, an Englishman, was wounded at the front and came to the United States to help recruiting here. He recently volunteered to serve in a medical capacity on board an American transport, bearing troops to France. Miss Hyland has been worried about her father and it was only after receiving a cablegram saying that he had arrived safely in a French port that she was able to put her mind on her work, which is a picture bearing the temporary name of "Bonnie Annie Laurie."

"My worries are not confined to my father, either," said Peggy Hyland when questioned about her father, "I have two sisters in England engaged in war work. One is inspector in a British munition factory."

Peggy herself was born in Worcestershire, England, and not so very long ago either. She was educated there and in a convent in Belgium.

"I always wanted to go on the stage," she confesses, "and I just kept asking and asking until George Edwards gave me a place in the chorus at an enormous salary—nine dollars a week."

From musical comedy she advanced to the speaking ranks and played with many of the leading English actors. She played in "The Yellow Jacket" with Cyril Maude.

Her entrance into pictures was rather impulsive. She was told that her face would screen well and she decided to try for a position in motion pictures and see. She was so well received that she soon afterwards accepted a big offer from an American concern and came to this country with a contract in 1916. She has played with Pathe also and it was she who supported Sothorn in his first screen appearance, "The Chatter."

GOSSIP

It would seem that some movie actors do more than pose.

Mme. Petrova has composed a number of Indian love songs, the first called "In the Dawn of an Indian Sky." The music is by Ward Stephens.

Bessie Love plays the piano, violin cello and ukulele.

Peggy Hyland.

Fannie Ward has written a novel. Ruth Roland has composed musical numbers.

And Harold Lloyd paints portraits in his leisure moments.

Enid Bennett and Fred Niblo are playing in a picture together at the face studio and their insist upon sharing all closeups, equally. If Fred is not around Enid is so nervous she just can't act, and if Enid is not around Fred is afraid she has gone outside of the studio, where she will be run over by the street car or something.

The reason. They have only been married two weeks and are still on their honeymoon.

Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, who returned to Los Angeles some weeks ago, following rumors of marital difficulties, has left the coast for New York. The latest report is that no reconciliation has been effected, and the couple have agreed to disagree.

The United States Government wants every man, woman and child in Jauesville to see this great film production. These official war pictures were taken by the United States Signal Corps staff photographers and camera men who are now recording the history of the war on the western front. They are enlisted men serving under Gen. Pershing's command.

Pershing's Crusaders is a picture you are urged to see. Know what the United States is doing to win the war. It shows vividly all that this country is doing in preparing for the greatest conflict the world has ever known. Go with the camera men, see the evolution of the boy in khaki. See Uncle Sam's tailor shop, and how he met the great problem of clothing his new army.

You Will Thrill

at the sight of the Army and Navy in action. Your are taken to within a stone's throw of the brutal Boches. One can almost detect the smell of powder. See the snipers post with one of our snipers on the job, and the first German prisoners captured by our brave boys--twenty-four down-hearted, defeated Huns.

Uncle Sam Is

especially earnest in his request that you see this picture. You may see YOUR BOY or YOUR NEIGHBOR'S BOY or perhaps a FRIEND, and to know how well he is taken care of is a mighty, big consolation.

This Remarkable Motion Picture was photographed by official government men sent with armies for that particular purpose, by the committee on Public Information, of which George Creel is chairman. The pictures are brought to the public through the Division of Films, of which Charles S. Hart of Chicago is director.

MORRIS MILLER

Arthur Fletcher, who worried along for some time after the opening of the season with a batting average far below that of which he is capable, is at last beginning to hit in his usual form. The star of his drive with the stick was reminiscent with the shift in the third batting order, which raised him from fifth place to third in the batting list, and it would appear that John McCreary used excellent judgment in assigning the picky captain to that position.

Dan Breathers, once the heaviest left-handed pitcher in the National league, visited the Toledo grounds recently to take a look at Babe Ruth. "Huggins told me the other day that Ruth was the greatest hitter of modern times and that I ought to see him," said Dan, who took a seat in the press box and waited patiently for something to happen.

Wilson, right fielder of the Vancouver club of the Pacific Coast International league, is called by baseball men in that part of the country as a potential big league star.

Coal conservation among the golf and country clubs is going to assume a more serious character during the coming winter. If A. Gardfield, the fuel administrator, recently sent word to the United States Golf association requesting that the country clubs be asked to conserve in the matter of coal consumption and he sets the date as November 1.

Last winter, it is recalled, the order to golfers which the administrator sent out through the medium of the national association, not issued until after the first of the year, and it came too late for the season to many followers of the game. Clubs were quick, however, to respond to a large number of letters, their consumption of coal during the winter being completely cut off.

When it comes to knocking out home runs Babe Ruth plays no favorites. He sent Walter Johnson, and that is quite a feat.

It is not the desire of the fuel administrator to have the golf and country clubs shut down in winter, and if they can continue throughout November and the subsequent cold weather months without burning coal, there will be no objection to their keeping open houses. A few of the clubs last winter made shift to get along with log fires, but these substitutes as a rule can only be found in one or two rooms, and are hardly worth while in bitter weather.

Recently representatives of Harvard, Yale and Princeton have again put off definite action on the football at these three large universities until next fall. Dean Briggs, who was Harvard's representative at the recent conference, stated after the meeting: "The chairman of the athletic associations of Yale, Princeton and Harvard believe that the universities will do well to follow next year the policy of this year in deciding the question as to the resumption of any major sport in intercollegiate athletics when the time for the sport draws near, taking into consideration the probable amount of interest in the sport and the relation of its demand to the demands of military training, and whatever else may be at that time pertinent."

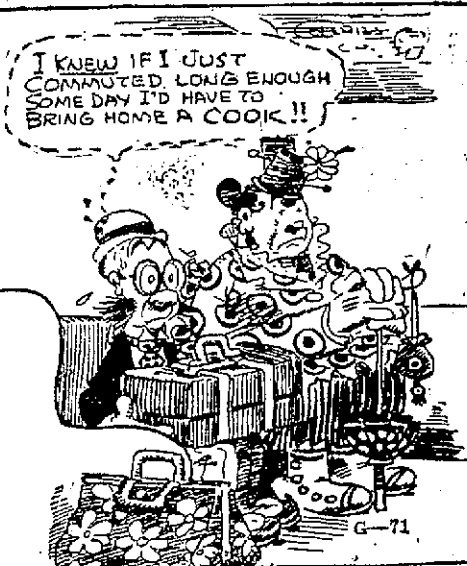

Harry Thutthill, trainer of the Detroit club, has resigned that post to accept a commission as a lieutenant in the sanitary corps of the army.
